OFFERED FOR A NATIONAL PARK

GUILFORD BATTLE GROUND WILL BE GIVEN FREELY.

While Efforts are Being Made to Sell the Government Valley Forge and Land at Yorktown, It May Here Have an Important Revolutionary Battle Field Already Converted Into a Park.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

It appears in a late issue of your paper that the mayor of Philadelphia, together with representatives of different chapters of Daughters of the Revolution are asking Congress to "acquire" Valley Forge from the State of Pennsylvania.

We find also in a press dispatch the following:

"Senator Martin and Representatives Jones, Lassiter, and Lamb, accompanied Messrs. A. O. Mauck, E. C. Madison, and others, who are owners of the Temple farm and Moore house, at Yorktown, to the Committee on Military Affairs of the House today. There they were given a hearing in regard to the purchase of this historic property for the purpose of making it a national park. The principal speakers were Senator Martin and Representative Lamb, both of whom made forcible arguments in behalf of the proposed park. No promises were made by the committee, but such a favorable impression was made that there is little doubt the members will agree to recommend the necessary appropriation for the purchase of the farm and house."

That is right, and we bid them God speed. Wisdom and patriotism alike dictate that Americans keep alive the memories, the principles and the practices of the Revolutionary fathers.

If expense be considered by Congress, allow me in this connection to say that the general goverment can "acquire" from North Carolina, through her Guilford Battle Ground Association—and without purchase, but freely and gratuitously, a Revolutionary battle field, of which in his excellent address at Guilford on the 4th of July last, General Henry V. Boynton, of Massachusetts, said:

"Every American should esteem it high privilege to take part in public exercises wherever this day commemorating our National Independence is celebrated. It is an exceptional privilege, as well as high honor, to so participate in this Commonwealth of North Carolina", and "especially upon this memorable battle ground—the high water mark of foreign invasion—from which that tide ebbed swiftly away to British surrender at Yorktown. Behold the mile posts which history has set up along that shining way which led straight on to American Independence—Alamance, Moore's Creek, Mecklenburg, King's Mountain, Cowpens, Guilford Courthouse, Yorktown!

"Today we look back to that Independence which this battlefield did so much to secure, and glory in the victory here achieved—for in every sense it was a tactical victory, and the immediate forerunner of the enemy's final defeat.

"This park stands for more than the Battle of Guilford Courthouse.

"In celebrating the Revolution period we should not forget that the fires of patriotism, of defiance to British authority and of independence burned brightly in North Carolina long before Lexington, or Concord, or Bunker Hill; or that the last Legislature of this State to recognize royal authority was that of March, 1774.

"This monument is for North Carolina the brilliant point on the gilded dome of our independence—seen far and wide, a gleaming out of the past that will never grow dim. Think of the situation which it commemorates! You are all familiar with it.

"Speaking generally, the country has done liitle toward saving the features of its colonial battle grounds from oblivion. Various steps have been taken in different parts of the land to mark historic points of that seven year's struggle; but nowhere save here, so far as I am informed, has a Revolutionary battlefield been bought outright and preserved entire. Bunker Hill has its monument—surrounded by solid blocks of brick and mortar. There is a bronze Minute Man at Concord, and granite tablets on the line

High Point, Jan. 14—For several days High Point has been troubled by the circulation of spurious coin in various denominations, and the government authorities being notified, sent a detective, Mr. Chas. E. Wight, to investigate. The local authorities cooperated with the detective and this afternoon three men, Dick Gurley, W. Roach, and Jim Spencer, son of the bricklayer, were arrested, and will be carried to Greensboro tonight and given a hearing before Clerk Trogdon. Mr. Wright, the detective, assisted by Mr. Millikan, has been working on the case several days. One of the prisoners is said to be but little over 18 years of age. From what can be learned the trio are in a fair way to spend some time in Sing Sing.

Mr. Lee has been in the service of the Southern and its predecessors since 1872, and is well and favorably known in railway circles. He expects to leave tomorrow for his new field. No official announcement has as yet been made as to his successor.

DR. TYREE'S VISIT.

Preaches Two Sermons—The Congregation Highly Pleased—His Answer to be Given This Week.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Tyree, of Durham, lately called to the pastorate of the Greensboro Baptist church, preached two sermons in the latter pulpit yesterday. Large congregations greeted him on both occasions. Though it is generally recognized that "sample" sermons are never a man's best, Dr. Tyree preached two strong ones, and the congregation was highly pleased with each of them. Dr. Tyree is an able man. His character is positive, and his words are delivered with an earnestness that send them home to the hearer's heart. His language is choice and his vocabulary is used with precision.

Yesterday afternoon and this morning Prof. Joyner, Messrs. C. E. Holton, Lee H. Battle, J. S. Moore and others accompanied Dr. Tyree over the city and suburbs, he wishing to make investigation as to the need or opportunity for mission work. He will continue the consideration of the question of coming in the light of the facts gathered on his trip. His answer will be given this week.

It is understood that the Durham church is so anxious for Dr. Tyree to remain with it that his salary has been increased thirty-three and a third per cent.

AFTER MR. POWE'S VALUABLES.

A Thief Enters the Mill Supply Department of the Odell Hardware and Ransacks a Drawer.

Last Friday night a thief made a raid on the mill supply department of the Odell Hardware Company. A drawer in which Mr. W. T. Powe, the manager, kept his private papers was entered and the contents, principally letters, scattered over the floor. The drawer was locked and the rogue, after trying to unlock it, was compelled to burst it open by means of a large hook used for lifting heavy boxes, and which was probably laying handy. Mr. Powe had been in the habit of occasionally leaving valuables in this drawer, a fact no doubt known to the thief. No signs were left to show how entrance was made and it is thought that whoever did the work came in before the doors were locked and hid themselves. They left by way of the back door which opens on Davie street and which was found wide open the following morning. Nothing has been missed so far but a pistol and a silver dollar, and no clue has been found that promises to lead to the detection of the guilty parties. No other part of the store was visited, the thief evidently having but one purpose in view.

Small Pox This Winter.

Greensboro had plenty of trouble with small pox last year. She doesn't want anymore. A city physician hands us the following clipping from the December Bulletin of the State Board of Health:

"As was anticipated and predicted the recrudescence of small pox has set in with the cold weather. The disease was present in nine counties in November, and it has appeared in three more counties, Granville 6, Vance 1, and Alexander 1, since the monthly reports were sent in. And it also looks as if our prediction that as the epidemic progressed the disease would become more severe in character, is finally going to be fulfilled. Dr. Boothe, of Granville, says "all cares severe except one," and Dr. Mallory, of Caswell, "I notice the form of the disease is much worse now than last spring. Nearly half are of the confluent variety." We fear we do not regret this as much as we perhaps should, because we hope it may be the means of impressing upon the people the importance of vaccination, for it becomes more and more manifest that the only thing which stops the disease finally is the vaccination of all the people."

MORRIS ON THE LEGISLATURE.

GENTLEMEN SMOOTHING THE PATH TO THE FEED TROUGH.

The Wayne County Philosopher Makes an Astounding Statement About Joe Caldwell and How Morris Has Been Compelled to Hold Him in Line—How Service in the Legislature Unfits Men for Yanking Up Sinners—How Aycock First Emerged From Old Nahunta on a Roan Steer, Under a Blue Cotton Umbrella.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

The reason that I have not kept my promise, until now, to do some scratch-work for The Telegram, is because I have been kept very busy, pawing in the columns of The Charlotte Observer, in the interest of gold-buggery and other heathen faiths. Josephus—no, Josephus applies to Daniels. I meant Joseph, which applies to Caldwell—Joseph Caldwell, editor-in-chief of The Observer, is, at heart, a Billie Bryan man, and in favor of 16 to 1, and government ownership of the Charlotte street railway; and, in view of these facts, it has kept me under a strain to furnish examples, in his own columns, that would keep him encouraged to get up early, fetch water, split wood, build the fire, and cook breakfast for us, poor political outcasts.

* * *

I was in Raleigh when the Legislature met. I couldn't help it; I had to be there, anyhow.

I don't know what's going on in any man's heart, but from a snap-shot glance at the exterior, I think that it's a very risky business to send a man who has been useful at religious revivals, during protracted meetings, to the Legislature. When he gets back home his memory gets short as to whether the weekly prayer-meeting takes place on Wednesday or Thursday night, and, thereafter, he is, usually, on a strike when the Lord wants an able-bodied hand to go out, in the congregation, and drag sinners to the mourners' bench.

* * *

A man who had rather go to the Legislature and eat market-house sausage, and have his teeth rebound from fried beef, swiped from the neck-cut of a Wake county dwarf-bull, than to stay home and eat roast turkey and soft-boiled eggs, has more care for his State than for his digestion, and doesn't mind being a source of profit to his family undertaker.

* * *

Most everybody who can't make a living at home, and who has an ambition to bunk up with the taxpayers, has already reached Raleigh, and the Old Mullet railroad, a State property, from Goldsboro to Morehead City, has, as usual, when the Legislature meets, run a sidetrack into the lobby of the Yarboro House, while there are aspects of the "ins" holding to the throttle and the bell-cord, and the "outs" clutching at both; and all, while the lobby, itself, is odorous with the ascending incense of corned mullets.

* * *

I met eighty-seven men in Raleigh who were familiarizing themselves with the path to the patronage-trough by speaking of the Honorable Charles Brantly Aycock as "Charlie." Each of these eighty-seven told me that he was the original Aycock man, in North Carolina, and one, who, until the meeting of this Legislature, had never been farther east than Blowing Rock, said that he had watched Aycock 'way down in Wayne county, and had foretold a distinguished life for him, so early as the time when Aycock wore frocks and toddled in the furrow behind the plow, dropping corn and covering it with his foot, long before Aycock's initial venture into public life, when, to attend a Baptist convention in Goldsboro, he came from old Nahunta precinct, in the northern part of the county, riding a roan steer, under a blue cotton umbrella.

* * *

Tomorrow, the fifteenth day of the twentieth century, the Russelliferous period, in North Carolina, expires, the Aycockolorum age begins:

Dan now departs from fret and strife,
And Aycock vaults to public life.
If Dan was wrong, may God forgive;
May righteousness in Aycock live.

THE STOLEN HORSE NOT STOLEN

BY MISTAKE A STRANGER WENT OFF WITH IT.

The Stranger Narrowly Escapes Being Run Down as a Thief—Mr. Excell to be in High Point.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

High Point, Jan. 13.—Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. C. A. Hamner were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Mary's Episcopal church, conducted by Rev. Dr. Davis, Recter of the Parish at Concord. A large concourse of friends and relatives attended the services at the church and grave.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fortier, of Hagerstown, Md., attended the funeral over the remains of the latter's mother, Mrs. C. A. Hamner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Walker, of Basic City, are here visiting relatives.

Miss Virginia Hamner, who has been in Washington City visiting, was called home last week on account of the sicknoss of her mother.

Mr. Warren S. Brown, foreman of the Observer Job Office, spent Friday and Saturday here, returning today, accompanied by his mother.

Mrs. J. T. Herring, of Pilot Mountain, who was called here by the death of her neice, Mrs. J. J. Farriss, returned home today.

This morning about half past eleven o'clock Dr. D. A. Stanton drove up to the Jarrel Hotel and hitched his horse. On returning about one hour thereafter he found his horse and buggy gone, and for several hours he received no intelligence of their whereabouts. It was first thought the conveyance had been stolen and telegrams were being arranged for transmission, giving description of the theif,etc. The man was seen to drive in the direction of Greensboro. It was ascertained that a gentleman at the hotel who had ordered a conveyance had jumped into the buggy thinking it was the one which he had ordered for that hour. He had used a horse the day before which closely resembles the one belonging to Dr. Stanton. It is needless to say that the gentleman, who, through mistake, caused the trouble was somewhat chagrined when the fact was made known to him.

Mr. J. B. Sanders, who was operated on for appendicitis by Dr. Stokes, of Salisbury, died at his home here at 4 o'clock Friday morning. The interment took place that afternoon. Deceased leaves a wife (a daughter of Mr. Wm. Lovelace) and four children.

Mr. E. O. Excell, the celebrated singer and author of song books, will attend the meeting of the State Sunday School Convention here in February. Other well known people will be in attendance.

Your correspondent has been unable to furnish the usual amount of news from this place this week on account of a sad bereavement in the family of which he is a member—that of a beloved sister, Mrs. J. J. Farriss.

Mr. N. W. Beeson, who has been connected with the Beeson Hardware Company for many years, has accepted a position with the High Point Hardware Company, taking the place of Mr. John Wilborn, resigned.

Robbers and Policemen Fight.

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 13.—Officer Charles W. Goss, of the city police force, surprised a gang of men attempting to rob the German Savings Bank at an early hour this morning. He engaged in a single-handed battle with three of the men, who were already in the bank, and one acting as sentinel on the corner. Goss is sure he hit two as they came out of the bank door. All shot back without effect and made their escape, terrorizing the few persons they met on the way by indiscriminate firing.

They probably numbered six persons, armed with Winchesters, shot guns and large revolvers. They shot at the operator at the West Virginia Railroad station. They also shot at another policeman. Nothing was stolen at the bank. Afterwards the gang committed two small robberies in South Cumberland. They are still at large. The bank has offered a reward of $250 and voted $50 to Goss.

of March from Cambridge to Lexington. The State of Pennsylvania has saved the camp ground of Valley Forge. The Daughters of the American Revolution in Connecticut are erecting a historical tablet where Putman took his famous ride, and their sisters in Fredericksburg, Va., have resolved to mark all Revolutionary points in that vicinity. The government has erected an imposing monument at Yorktown. New Jersey has placed a monument on each of her fields of note, and some work of this kind has been done in New York. These things are well, and deserve the support and acclaim of all patriots.

"But how these pale before the more comprehensive project here! Here also is a monument to mark the field of Guilford Courthouse. How much more than this is here? While the government has reared that noble shaft a Yorktown, it is but half completed work. It will not be finished until on this ground, marking the field which made Yorktown possible, it has raised an equally imposing monument to tell the preliminary and compelling story of Guilford Courthouse to the ages."

These, Mr. Editor, are the declarations of a native "son of Massachusetts, having an ancestor among the minute men called out by the battle of Lexington and another, a private soldier, at Bunker Hill," not told by way of "self laudation, but solely to give greater point and stronger emphasis to what it will be my pleasure to say in regard to the still earlir part played by North Carolina in the great drama of the Revolution." General Boynton is today the intelligent and patriotic President of the Chickamauga Park Commission.

This Revolutionary battlefield of eighty acres with its roads, ravines, hills and vales as described in history and within the lovingly tended bosom of which sleep statesmen and soldiers of the period, their tombs marked by monuments and the memory of others commemorated by cenotaphs and statuary—16 in number—is hereby freely tendered the general government upon the sole condition that it shall be preserved as a National park forever.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH M. MOREHEAD,
Vice-President of the Guilford Battle Ground Co.

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE IN SNOW.

A Railroad Train in Russia Passes Five Days in a Blizzard—Corpses Unburied Eight Days.

Associated Press Dispatch in The Charlotte Observer.

London, Jan. 14.—The Odessa correspondent of The Daily Mail sends a heart-rending story of the sufferings of railroad passengers for five days snowbound, while on the way to Odessa. The blizzard raged continuously for more than 100 hours over the whole of Southern Russia. He describes the gradual arrival of the trains at Razdyelnaia. Passengers struggled among themselves for the scanty food. Finally some 5,000 passengers had assembled at Razdyelnaia. A regiment was sent from Kieff southward and 3,000 troops went northward from Odessa with shovels. On the third day the relieving parties succeeded in cutting a passage for a couple of trains, which started with 2,000 persons, after a mad rush, the weakest going to the wall.

The trains proceeded for 18 hours and were then again stuck in the snow, unable to go forward or backward. The blizzard continued. Demoniacal fury and pandemonium prevailed. The trains were buried, and all passed a horrible night Count Kapnist, with forty passengers, walked to where he was able to secure sledges.

Meanwhile, Governor Schuvaloff had organized train sledges with supplies, which, after heculean efforts, relieved the two trains. Many passengers had their arms and legs frozen.

Eighteen thousand troops are now clearing the line. Corpses have been kept unburied for eight days, as it has been impossible to inter them. The conduct of the railway authorities is loudly condemned."

The Bucharest correspondent of The London Daily Express says that five Roumanian soldiers, while going home, were attacked and eaten by wolves, after a desperate struggle.

The most soothing, healing and antiseptic application ever devised is DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It relieves at once and cures piles, sores, eczema and skin diseases. Beware of imitations. Howard Gardner.

A BLACK-HEARTED MURDERER.

A Drunken Painter Kills His Family and Himself.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Louis Currier, aged 40 years, at an early hour this morning cut his wife's throat, broke his son Archie's head with a baseball bat, took a dose of paris green and cut his own throat from ear to ear with a razor.

All three are dead. Currier left a letter addressed to the police which shows that the murder was premeditated. The letter is as follows:

"Albany, N. Y., January 11th, 1901.

"To Whom it May Concern: When you find our dead bodies you may call upon the President of the Painter's Union and get one hundred and fifty dollars for my funeral and one hundred dollars on my wife that will bury the three of us, I guess. Notify my brother-in-law and his wife, which is my sister. She keeps a store on the corner of First and Lexington Avenue.

"I gave them all my belongings and also her father in North Adams. I have a sister in Morton street. Don't let her see any of us. * * * With my best wishes, I remain till death

"LOUIS CURRIER.

"She bought the paris green herself last week from Harvith Drug Store for the purpose of poisoning me, but I watched her too close and gave her a hard death. I wish I could have given her more for that is not half enough. I wish I had done it before."

Currier was a painter by trade. His wife, whom he married thirteen years ago, was then employed in a woolen mill at North Adams, Mass. Their one child, the second victim of the father's gruesome deed was 12 years of age.

Mrs. Israel Currier, sister of the murderer and suicide, exonerates the dead woman and states that her brother made life most wretched for his wife, drinking to excess and abusing her.

McBee Appointed Vice-President.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 12.—A circular signed by President John Skelton Williams of the Seaboard Air Line announcing the acceptance of the resignation of Vice-President and General Manager St. John and the appointment of Superintendent V. E. McBee as acting vice-president and general manager of the system, was issued here this afternoon. The fact that the circular recites that the order becomes effective upon its promulgation, anticipating the resignation of Mr. St. John, which was to become effective January 15, excited much comment. It is considered as confirmatory of various reports of sharp differences between high officials preceding the resignation of Mr. St. John. President Williams' action is regarded as extraordinary, and his apparent discourtesy to Mr. St. John is generally deprecated.

MONDAY, JANUARY 14

GRIP.

The grip is no joke. It used to be in its first and fashionable days when it was known as influenza, and some of the smart fellows got off a joke about opening the "window and in flew enza (influenza). The great question in those days was whether the ultra fashionable and correct name was influenza, la grippe, or "the" la grippe, now the universally accepted, and appropriate name, is plain grip. Also the early question of whether grip was merely a new name for a plain old fashioned bad cold has been fully and satifactorily decided in the negative. The disease has become a very troublesome one in this country, and even a dangerous one. It is now an epidemic in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, and the hospitals are overcrowded. Dr. Cyrus Edson, in the New York Journal, gives the following information:

Grip symptoms: Slight chills, accompanied by shivering; then soreness of the eyes and headaches; these followed by frequent sneezing, heat and soreness at the top of the larynx, along the course of the windpipe, with hoarseness and dry cough; flying pains in the back, knees and various parts of the body; weight and anxiety in the region of the heart; depression of spirits, together with sudden and extraordinary prostration of strength.

How to avoid the grip: Keep dry, warm and well fed; wear warm underclothing; don't be afraid to wear rubbers. It is more important to keep the feet warm and dry than any other part of the body; get a full eight hours' sleep and take a cold bath on arising, if you can stand it; if you cant't stand the bath, hire a masseur. If you can't afford massage, have the body rubbed down, avoid excesses of all kinds, esscially in eating and drinking, but don't go too long without food.

A good cure for the grip: Phenacetine, two scruples, salol, two scruples; quinine salicylate, one scruple. Mix into twenty pills. Take one pill every hour for four hours, and then one every two hours for three or four doses.

The Charlotte Observer says that it has learned from what the doctors are saying that the grip "by itself, is not dangerous—it is the complications liable to follow that are to be feared. Unless the patient is careful during convalescence there is a liability of contracting pneumonia, typhoid fever, pleurisy, kidney trouble and other dangerous diseases, which the grip patient, with a weakened system is ill prepared to withstand. There is probably no disease that racks the nervous system as does the influenza poison."

Dr. John S. Fulton, of Baltimore, gives this advice to grip patients:

Remain in a well-ventilated house.

Keep off the street, especially after nightfall.

If you must go on the streets don't stop to shake hands with your friends.

This may not save your friends anything, but it will save your own lungs and kidneys.

Don't take remedies, especially stimulants, except under medical advice.

Sleep alone and preserve a good temper, if possible.

Charlotte is keeping mighty quiet these days. She must be hatching up a case of kidnaping.—Concord Tribune.

Our contemporary is mistaken. There was perhaps a time when Charlotte might have had a kidnapping, but it is past. The thing has now become too common.

A man was electrocuted in New York at six o'clock this morning and the press dispatch describes the operation as highly successful, from which we infer that the gentleman is good dead.

It is reported that Tillman was snubbed at Chicago. It is further said that he was snubbed because he talked "sassy" to Bryan about his reorganization speech at the Jacksonian banquet, criticising it as being untimely and impolitic.

How long has it been since the Senator has begun to think that the late presidential candidate ever makes a mistake? It may be that Bryan is losing his grip on his followers after all. Tillman is not the man to go down with a sinking ship.—Greenville, S. C., News.

Mr. Tillman is strikingly like Mr. Bryan in his manner of debating, except the latter never drops into the coarseness that too often characterizes Mr. Tillman's utterances. Both debate; neither discusses a question, the idea being to get the better of an opponent rather than shedding light on the subject. Mr. Tillman is intellectually a stronger man than Mr. Bryan, but is not so ready.

A Thousand Boxers Reported Killed.

Shanghai, Jan. 13.—The Italian consul at Shanghai, in explaining the presence of Italian warships at San Mun Bay, says they went there for target practice.

It is again reported here that the allies are preparing to enter the province of Shan Si.

A French force is reported to have defeated a body of Boxers west of Pao Ting Fu, killing a thousand.

PRINCE CHUN TO MAKE APOLOGIES.

Pekin, January 13.—Prince Chun, brother of the Emperor, paid a visit to the German legation today, where he had a satisfactory interview with the German minister, Dr. Mumm Von Schwartzenstein.

His appointment as Chinese envoy to Germany to make apologies for the murder of Baron Von Kettler has been approved. It is probable that Prince Su will accompany him.

A Farmer Murdered and His Mother Assaulted.

Portland, Me., Jan. 13.—Thomas C. Mosher, a farmer, aged 25, was murdered and his head beaten almost to a jelly, and his mother, Mrs. Rufus Mosher, aged 57, was brutally assaulted at their home in Gorham, Saturday evening, by two men, who forced an entrance into the Mosher residence with the evident intention of robbery. The men then ransacked the house, taking what valuables they could find. William Hands, a negro, was arrested at Scarboro. He had a blood-stained razor, marked with Mosher's name, $40 in money stained in blood, and a watch. His hands and clothing were soiled and bloody. He admits having been at the Mosher farm house, and says he left his companion in Portland.

Everybody Against Him.

Asheville Special to Raleigh Post.

Marcus Erwin, clerk of the Superior Court, had a narrow escape this afternoon from destruction at the hands of Claude Miller. Erwin had Miller prosecuted for embezzlement. This morning Miller was bound over to court. Later he called Erwin into the corridor of the court house and producing a dynamite stick, lit the end, intending to blow himself and Erwin up. A desperate struggle for possession of the stick ensued, Erwin finally being successful and extinguishing the fuse. Miller's excuse was that every man's hand seemed to be against him and he did not care if he did die.

News was received here late Saturday evening of the accidental killing of a man named Henderson at Dave Coble's saw mill near Julian. The accident occurred in the forenoon. He was a brother of the station agent at Julian.

Three Girls Die Together.

Nottingham, Eng., Jan 12.—Three young women whose lives contained some mystery, either of love or crime, but probably of love alone, put an end to their lives in the river Trent under circumstances that have aroused deep interest. They wrote a note which said simply that they had decided to die together, giving no reason whatever for the decision. Then they jumped into the river and were found dead in each others arms, their hair floating and waving on the surface of the water. All were good looking, somewhat sentimental and romantic.

HICK'S CAPUDINE

Forewarned, Forearmed.

The liability to disease is greatly lessened when the blood is in good condition, and the circulation healthy and vigorous. For then all refuse matter is promptly carried out of the system; otherwise it would rapidly accumulate—fermentation would take place, the blood become polluted and the constitution so weakened that a simple malady might result seriously.

A healthy, active circulation means good digestion and strong, healthy nerves.

As a blood purifier and tonic S. S. S. has no equal. It is the safest and best remedy for old people and children because it contains no minerals, but is made exclusively of roots and herbs.

No other remedy so thoroughly and effectually cleanses the blood of impurities. At the same time it builds up the weak and debilitated, and renovates the entire system. It cures permanently all manner of blood and skin troubles.

Mr. E. E. Kelly, of Urbana, O., writes: "I had Eczema on my hands and face for five years. It would break out in little white pustules, crusts would form and drop off, leaving the skin red and inflamed. The doctors did me no good. I used all the medicated soaps and salves without benefit. S. S. S. cured me, and my skin is as clear and smooth as any one's."

Mrs. Henry Siegfried, of Cape May, N. J., says that twenty-one bottles of S. S. S. cured her of Cancer of the breast. Doctors and friends thought her case hopeless.

Richard T. Gardner, Florence, S. C., suffered for years with Boils. Two bottles of S. S. S. put his blood in good condition and the Boils disappeared.

BABY'S BUSINESS

A healthy baby is comfortable; and that is enough for a baby. His business in life is to grow.

Aside from acute diseases, his food is the cause of most of his troubles. But Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil delivers him from it.

He isn't sick; only a little hitch, somewhere, in his machine for turning food into growth.

It is a great thing to do, for a baby, to help him over a hitch with mere food—the emulsion is food that has the tact to get there.

The tact to get there is medicine.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incideat, of which Mre ohn Oliver, of Philadeldhia, was the ubject, is narrated by him as follows; 'I was in a most dreadful condition tion. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters: and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one snould fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

Eve and the Apple

By Owen Oliver.

EVE and an apple overcame an ancestor of mine. He would not have wanted the apple, he said, but for Eve. That was exactly my case.

Eve lived at No. 52 and I at No. 54. I am not sure where the apple lived, but it was at one of the two. It hung on a high branch over No. 52's garden, but it fattened on the soil of No. 54, for which I paid rent.

It was Eve, of course, who called my attention to it. I heard her voice through the open window. She has an attractive voice.

"Oh, look, mother!" she cried. "There is my apple."

"Hush, dear! It isn't your apple at all. It belongs to the people next door."

"He isn't people," objected Eve. I am a bachelor.

"Anyhow, the apple is his."

"Is it?" She tossed her head. She has a graceful way of tossing her head. "Then he shan't have it. Mr. Layton gave it to me every year." Mr. Layton was my predecessor. "You know he always lent me his ladder to get it." I felt inclined to offer my ladder there and then, but the time, like the apple, was not ripe.

As the summer went on the apple grew in size and beauty. Eve watched the apple, and I watched Eve. She was so nice to watch that I did not offer her the forbidden fruit. I regarded it as a hostage for her regular appearance.

"Look at its rosy cheeks, mother!" she used to say, teasingly. "If it gets much bigger it must drop." She made motions expressing rapture.

"Eve, dear," her mother protested, "you know it isn't yours."

"It would be if I had a ladder." Then she would give a merry little laugh. She has a charming way of laughing.

The apple still hung on, however, and grew and grew. In the dusk of evening Eve tried to reach it with a clothes prop—at least it looked like Eve. I knew it was a clothes prop, because she let it drop over my wall, and it smashed three panes of a cucumber frame. Next morning she happened to be in the garden, so I returned it with grave ceremony.

"I—I'm afraid it broke something," she apologized.

"Not in the least," I assured her.

"I'll tell Mary Jane not to stand it up against your wall again," she promised mendaciously.

After that the apple blushed more furiously than ever. It was so ripe that it was marvelous how it held on, I heard her say. She was probably unaware that I had climbed up one night and secured it with fine wire.

Next she tried knocking tennis balls at it. Of course, she never went within a couple of yards. I picked up nine balls next morning and restored them to her.

"I thought they were windfalls from my apple tree," I said, and she fled indoors.

"I believe he was laughing at me," I heard her tell her mother. "Now, I will have it."

"No, no, dear! I forbid you to touch it. It's no use looking like that, Eve. I shall be really cross with you."

When I came home that evening the apple was still there, in all its glory, but when it grew dusk I noticed maneuvers with the prop going on once more. Finally I heard a cry of triumph, and the rustle of her skirts as she ran indoors. Then I went out.

I climbed the tree, gathered about a gallon of apples, and sent them in with a note.

"Dear Madam: I trust you will accept a few apples from my tree overhanging your garden, as I notice that there is only one upon your side.

"I have, however, a special reason for desiring that one. May I enter your garden to gather it? Yours very truly,

"FRANK NEWTON."

In a few minutes Sarah Ann returned with Mrs. Parker's thanks, and an assurance that she would be pleased for me to gather the apple whenever I liked. So, after putting the ladder over the wall, I went round to their front door and knocked. I was shown into a cozy sitting-room. Mrs Parker received me very pleasantly, but Miss Eve was rather quiet, as a young lady should be.

"You will be surprised at my bothering you about a single apple," I said. "The fact is I want it for some one who has particularly admired it."

"We have noticed," said her mother, with a side glance at Eve, "that it is a singularly fine apple."

"An exceptionally fine apple," a agreed. "It would be almost impossible to match it."

"I should like to see it when you have picked it," Mrs. Parker confessed. Eve said nothing. She appeared to have become absorbed in a book.

"I'll bring it in at once," I promised. I went out through the French window and ascended the tree. No one was looking, so I gathered another fine apple from my own side. When I returned Eve had disappeared.

"It doesn't look quite so large off the tree," I suggested, placing the apple upon the table.

"No," said the mother, examining it critically, "I scarcely think it does; but it is a very fine one."

"Perhaps your daughter would like to see it?"

"Ye—es." She laughed. "I am afraid it will make her feel rather envious." She rang the bell, and the servant came. "Ask Miss Eve to come for a moment, please."

After a few minutes' waiting, during which Mrs. Parker discovered that we had some mutual friends, and asked me to call in there sometimes, pretty Eve reappeared, looking guiltily defiant.

"Mr. Newton wants you to see his apple, Eve, dear. Isn't it a beauty?" Eve flushed and gave me a swift glance.

"Yes," she said, hesitatingly. She seemd to be studying the floor rather than the fruit.

"It might be a fellow to the one that tempted Eve!" I observed, with a smile. She traced a pattern with her foot.

"Adam was also tempted."

"By Eve, I believe? I don't fancy he wanted the apple much, did he?" She blushed again.

"You could not have a nicer apple than this, anyhow." She looked right at me at last. Her eyes said quite plainly: "You needn't tell mother." As if I had any such intention!

"I am glad you like it," I said, "because I want to give it to you, if I may. I could not help noticing that you admired it."

"There, Eve!" said her mother. "I told you that everyone would see that you coveted it."

"I—I am sorry," she said, in a subdued little voice.

"Please don't say that, or you will spoil my pleasure in giving it."

"Then—I am not sorry." She took it with a laugh.

Soon afterward I went, assuring Mrs. Parker that I should soon avail myself of her kind invitation to call again. I hope they did not hear me laughing when I got indoors.

The next day was Sunday. In the afternoon Eve sat under the shade of my apple tree reading a book. So I strolled out and looked over the wall.

"Eve," I remarked, "was turned out of Paradise for stealing an apple."

She looked up and smiled. Then she looked down.

"The annual apple on this side has always belonged to Eve," she asserted, pretending to cut the pages of her book. They were cut already.

"She might spare a tiny piece for Adam," I suggested. She glanced at me out of the corner of her eyes.

"Adam was better without the apple, you know," she assured me.

"Adam," I declared, "needed no pity at all."

She rested her chin on one hand and looked at me inquiringly with her big eyes. I would put down how she looked, if it were possible. It isn't. Mere ordinary charm of feature or coloring is common enough to have words. Real prettiness is unique, unnameable; little willful curves of the features, little waves of the hair—and "ways." She is pretty like that.

"Adam," she remarked, "lost Paradise and the apples."

"But he had Eve."

She studied her shoes, and I seated myself on top of the wall.

"You have plenty of apples," she said; "and you are not shut out of Paradise."

"Then," I replied, promptly, "I will come in." I did.

"How do you know this is Paradise?" she asked, demurely.

"Eve is here."

She looked at me saucily over her book.

"Poor Eve was much to be pitied." She simulated a sigh.

"Because she lost Paradise?"

"No; because she kept Adam."

"Did she mind, do you think?"

"Well—you see, it was just a very little bit her fault that he ate the apple."

"She would have eaten every scrap herself if she had been a modern Eve."

She looked up at the desecrated bough and laughed. A stray sunbeam danced in her eyes, like the dazzle of diamonds.

"I think she could be persuaded to share it with the modern Adam," she stated.

Thereupon she dived under the chair cushion and produced it.

"Now you have Paradise—and the apple," she told me.

"They are nothing," I said, feelingly, "compared with—Eve."

But Eve—my dainty little Eve—is coming to No. 54 in the spring. It will save any further dispute, she says, about the apple.—Madame.

NEW INVASION OF INDIA.

American Cigarettes Are Carrying All Before Them in the Orient.

The idea that the native Indian eschews all but his native tobacco, which he takes mostly in the form of cheroots, receives a hard shock from the newly issued official Review of the Trade of India. It appears that in 1898-99 the imports of manufactured tobacco, especially in the shape of cigarettes, underwent much expansion.

It is no longer true that the consumption of imported tobacco is practically confined to the Anglo-Indian population. Cigarettes made in America are being extensively imported now with special reference to the requirements of the native smoker, says the London Mail. They are greatly in evidence in and about Calcutta and other large cities, where they are beginning to supersede the unclean and unsavory compounds smoked in native apparatus.

Imported cottons have largely superseded the production of the native handloom; imported mineral oil and dyes have superseded the inferior articles produced in the country, to the great advantage of the consumer; imported sugar is also gradually beginning to thrust back the inferior and dirty sugar hitherto offered to the Indian consumer; and now it seems that Indian tobacco is to recoil before the invasion of foreign tobacco made up in neatly packed cigarettes.

Another turn of the wheel, and when the people have become accustomed to the better article the capitalist will arise and make it on the spot of Indian tobacco, to the advantage of both producer and consumer, as has been done with cotton goods and will be done with sugar.

THERE WAS A MISTAKE.

Case of Genuine Honesty That Took an Incredulous Scoffer Off His Feet.

"I think," he began, as he halted a pedestrian on a back bay street in Boston, "I think I made a mistake with the cabman who drove me to the art gallery. I am quite sure I gave him a ten dollar bill, but he must have mistaken it for a two dollar bill."

"And you hope to find him again?" asked the man, who was a stranger in the city, relates an eastern exchange.

"Why, yes, I have hopes."

"Well, you are about as green as they make 'em. That cabman deliberately swindled you out of many dollars."

"I can't hardly believe it. He looked so honest and truthful that I—I—"

"That you ought to have asked him to hold your watch and the rest of your money! My dear old Josh from the cornfields, let me say—"

At that minute a cab rattled up, and the driver dismounted and said:

"See here, old man, there is a mistake. You probably meant to give me a two dollar bill, and I thought it was one when I gave you one dollar change."

"But I think it was a ten, my friend."

"No, it was a twenty, and I have been driving about for half an hour to find you and restore the money. Here it is."

"And what was it you were goin' to say to your dear old Josh from the cornfields?" asked the old man, as he turned to the stranger.

But the stranger was there no longer. He was flying for a subway car as if running for his life.

A CLEVER CHINEE.

He Draws a Keen Comparison of His Religion and Other People's.

"One of the most brilliant men of my acquaintance is a Chinaman," said John B. Galore, of New York, to a Washington Post reporter. "He has a tea house up in our metropolis, and he is a scholar as well as importer of the leaf. We were talking about the Chinese imbroglio several days ago, and conversation drifted from Boxers and the taking of Peking to the teachings of Confucius. He called attention to the fact that missionaries were trying to Christianize native Chinese who cling to a religion which has stood the test 6,000 years, and had nearly 300,000,000 followers, while the Christian religion is scarcely 2,000 years old with many followers of divided belief.

"'You Christian believers remind me,' he explained, 'of the Chinaman who stood on the river shore and watched the moon rise over the hill. A ray of sublime light came to him. It was beautiful. His friends were stationed at other places and he called to them to come quick and behold his own beautiful ray of light. They replied that they also followed beautiful rays of light to the same moon. From whatever position they looked they caught a ray equally as beautiful. That's the way with religion, and especially yours. You are looking at the light of goodness, emanating from the Divine source, and each thinks he has a monopoly, like the lone Chinaman with his one ray of light.'"

MYSTERY OF A LOST RING.

The Circlet Got Around a Mouse's Neck and Strangled Him to Death.

"I was told a true lost-ring story the other day which I believe has never been in print, although such may be the case, says a writer in the Boston Herald. A well-known society woman suddenly missed a valuable diamond ring from her finger. It was a ring she seldom removed, but all that could be remembered about it was that she had just washed her hands. Fearing it had slipped off in the operation the plumber was quickly called in and all the traps opened, with the faint hope of finding the jewel, but without avail, and sorrow reigned in the household, for the diamond was not only intrinsically valuable, but a dearly prized souvenir. Some time later the set bowl in the bathroom had to be replaced, and when it was removed, lo and behold, crowded in behind the water pipes was the skeleton of a mouse, and round the skeleton's thread of a neck hung a diamond ring. Identification was immediate and the mystery quickly cleared up by the poor little beast. He had feasted on a box of bran which milady kept to whiten her fair hands and into which she undoubtedly dropped the ring. Mousie, through vanity or accident, slipped it over his head, but in trying to escape with the loot he died a felon's death.

In the general reversion of things, flannel is being combined with velvet.

To Allow Grocers to Sell Spirits in Original Packages.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

As annouced in your paper recently the dispensary must close at sunset on the 31st instant. I am informed that a high license system of open saloons is now anticipated. Would it not be well when the city charter is amended to meet this demand, to provide at the same time, for the sale of liquor by grocers, in the original package only. This would enable the grocers of the city to fill orders for the large and influential element of our people who do not wish to patronize the open saloon. The saloon men would get all who wish to purchase mixed drinks and to drink in saloons, while the grocers could acceptably accommodate and supply those who must necessarily have wines etc., at their homes. Every city, nearly, has such a license and I think all parties should be satisfied with such an arrangement. The grocers' license should be about $100.00, as they would sell small quantities and at small profits. Let the people speak out. XXX.
